The Quick-Witted Rabbit

One day a rabbit crawled out of its burrow to take a walk. It had gone only a few steps, however, when it heard a wolf say, "I shall eat you!"

The rabbit was very frightened, but he kept his wits about him. He said to the wolf, "Oh, no, Mr. Wolf! What a pity that you will not be able to eat me after those hunters kill you."

Fearing the hunters, the wolf looked around to see where they were. This gave the rabbit just time to run back into its burrow.

Let this story be a lesson to you. Do not despise small creatures. They may have larger brains than you do!
